s'up? and I mean it. Some of you may have noticed that there have been a few encore performances of lava lamping lately, and to that I say maybe. Ok, there has been. but, and however, this Saturday July 2nd will be the Aimee Mann full concept album 'The Forgotten Arm' with a special following.

I decided to pull together what I hear when dj's here enter the room. The themes that today, whatever day this is, I have playing in my head with each of them. Sure this may not be normal, but who's really counting.

That's it thanks for being you

achris

Thank You, Dennis!

It is terrific to hear from you.

...You can listen online if you have a computer, even with dial-up...go to the website, kz88.org, and click on the little megaphone/speaker icon that sez "listen here now" and you can hear us.. If you don't have a modem or access to the internet, I understand! Can't get dsl at home, cuz we are just out of the phone company range for their little boxes, and ABSOLUTELY they will NOT let us have it. And the laptop has no modem, and stand alone ones aren't working (in my humble opinion possibly cuz the underground phone line is now ancient)... hence.....no internet...We are doing well anyway, suffering no withdrawal to speak of, tho still after some years since digital boxes wrecked up our TV reception, we REALLY still miss CBS Sunday Morning and PBS....digital/scmidital!

Let us know if you try to listen online and have a problem. Possibly Myron could help.

Best regards...kz

If a cd could be a bff this is the one. Blackberry Winter is pure bluegrass that guides the porch seeking traveller to the warm sounds of Ozark history. Well done. Not only do I think so, but anyone that has seen the Winter's Bone movie is in true musical agreement. achris

As a duck hanging with achris I shake my head in a yepper way. She's my ride...the Duck

Don't miss the chance to get on the Blackberry Winter movement. Thank you BW for bringing bluegrass into the cool realms again
